

McKinleyville could add second water pipeline under the Mad River

Jack Durham
MAD RIVER UNION
MCKINLEYVILLE – Despite all of its storage tanks, upgraded water lines and automatic shutoff valves, McKinleyville’s water system has an Achilles’ heel – a single pipeline that runs under the Mad River and provides water for the entire town.

In the event of a major earthquake or flood, that pipe could be severed, leaving more than 17,000 residents without an adequate water source. It’s an issue that McKinleyville officials have talked about – and worried about – for more than two decades.

But now the McKinleyville Community District is about to embark on a $5 million project to build a what it describes as a “seismically-resilient, secondary pipeline under the Mad River.”

The MCSD Board of Directors will meet Wednesday, Nov. 5 at 6 p.m. at Azalea Hall, 1620

Pickett Rd., to consider approving a $250,000 contract with Kennedy Jenks to perform engineering and permitting work for the proposed pipeline. The meeting will also be on Zoom at 859 4543 6653.

The MCSD purchases water from its wholesale supplier, the Humboldt Bay Municipal Water District, which has facilities northeast of Arcata off West End Road. The water is delivered to McKinleyville through an 18-inch-diameter cast iron pipe that crosses under the Mad River and connects to the Grant Ramey Pump Station on North Bank Road.

In its proposal to provide services to the MCSD, the Kennedy Jenks engineering firm describes the problems with the existing pipeline.

“Due to the pipeline’s age, material, unknown structural condition, and location within the Mad River Fault Zone, it is Complications extend Arcata’s waterline project

ARCATA – Arcata’s Steel Waterline Replacement Project, which is replacing 50-year-old asbestos cement and steel water lines with modern C900 PVC pipe, is proceeding but is taking a while longer than anticipated.

Though a September City of Arcata news release optimistically reported work in some neighborhoods as “wrapping up,” heavy equipment was still operating there last week due to a couple of snags.

One glitch was water meters that were installed a

Ridgefield permit appeal opens STR tax discussion

Daniel Mintz
MAD RIVER UNION
ARCATA – An appeal of a greater Arcata area event venue’s permit modification led to the county Board of Supervisors’ consideration of an issue unrelated to the appeal’s complaints – payment of hotel bed taxes.

Effects of the venue’s overnight stays are part of the appeal but the Oct. 28 hearing’s discussion significantly focused on how to draw Transient Occupancy Tax (TOT) from them.

The venue, Ridgefield Events, is located at 2243 Fickle Hill Rd., about 800 feet northeast of the Wag-on Jack Lane intersection, in the Fickle Hill area.

Its original permit was approved in April of 2024. Subsequent changes to the permit approved by the Planning Commission include allowing up to 14 guests to stay at an onsite house for up to three days and allowing a maximum of 40 events per year with up to 175 guests per event.

Neighborhood resident Ken Stumpf, who filed the appeal along with several other neighbors, said noise and traffic impacts have changed the neighborhood’s atmosphere.

“We’re concerned that the future commercialization of our neighborhood and the potential

Survey tallies scale of federal funding cuts

MAD RIVER UNION
HUMBOLDT – Surveying of North Coast non-profit groups shows how federal actions have affected financial stability, programs and employees.

The impacts of new federal policy were detailed during an Oct. 29 online meeting of the Community Economic Resilience Consortium.

Surveying of non-profit groups by the Northern California Association of Nonprofits (NorCAN) between August and September details profound effects, including collective loss of $6.86 million in funding this year.

The surveys drew responses from 54 non-profits in Humboldt, Del Norte and Trinity counties.

Anne Holcomb of NorCAN, formerly the executive director of Food for People, said recent meetings among representatives of non-profit groups led to the information-gathering.

“We don’t think the community around us really has a good understanding of perhaps what each of us do, but certainly not how these cuts are going to impact the services that we all provide, which are a big part of the fabric of our community, the health and

Blue Ribbon for Union Street Charter School

ARCATA – State Superintendent of Public Instruction Tony Thurmond announced that Union Street Charter School was awarded the distinction of 2025 California Blue Ribbon School. Union Street Charter School Principal/Director Rea Erickson was thrilled with the news. "We are very honored but also proud of the collaboration between students, parents and staff to accomplish increased outcomes for all students," Erickson said. "I love our school so much. Incredibly grateful every day that I get to be at such a loving and safe place," said third grade teacher Violet Ray upon the announcement of the award. Former Director John Schmidt said, "What a wonderful accomplishment for you, the teachers, and the rest of the staff!" From their application, Union Street Charter

(USC) is a unique K-5 school that balances arts and academics in a community atmosphere. USC has been recognized as a California Distinguished School. We believe we are high performing because we attract highly qualified, dedicated and enthusiastic teachers, as well as invested parents and students. Union Street Charter is a highly sought after school because of small class size (17 students), parent involvement, engaging academic content, and twice-weekly instruction in Spanish, art and music. USC has a rich and diverse curriculum. The teachers and principal collaboratively choose an engaging research-based curriculum. Teachers pull from a variety of resources for instruction including literature, local professionals, indigenous people, and research proven curriculum that inspires students.

bit too low, creating a possible tripping hazard, according to Senior Project Manager Steven Luu. This required reinstallation of the meters, delaying repaving. So traffic cones remained in place for several weeks as the paving contractor was busy with other scheduled work. Paving operations were wrapping up at week's end for Antoine, Antoinette, Benjamin and Zelia courts. Also, sections of pipe were found to be undersized – 4 inches rather than 8 – requiring replacement, plus new fire hydrants at various intersections. Then a valve failed and required emergency repairs, causing a water shutoff. The City Council approved the $10,793,638.66 project last April with contractor McCullough Construction, Inc.

associated detrimental impacts of the venue operations have never been thoroughly studied," he said. "We fear that there's an apparent pattern of permanent venue expansion through the incremental permitting process without there ever being consideration for the planned future venue as a whole." He added, "We do not want a commercial resort in our area."

Ridgefield Events co-owner Scott Davies noted his family's "gifting" of a 77-acre conservation easement to the City of Arcata, which expanded the city's community forest. He said the various claims of detrimental effects have been "debunked by a variety of experts."

But supervisors' discussion veered to the onsite house's function as a Short Term Rental and the issue of tax payment.

"If we're going to consider regulating the overnights as STRs, then we should also tax them as STRs," said Supervisor Mike Wilson, whose district includes the venue site.

Board Chair Michelle Bushnell questioned that. "We have several of these throughout the county that do have overnight stays," she said. "And I don't know that we've required an STR out of them. And so I want to make sure we're being consistent."

That led to a complex discussion, with Planning Director John Ford saying "the transient occupancy tax is not on a certain type of overnight stay other than the fact that it's an occupancy of less than 30 days -- and so whether it's an STR, a hotel, or anything else, that house is being used for a transient occupancy purpose and meets the definition of transient occupancy."

Supervisor Steve Madrone noted that STR taxation "is not on the agenda" and said it soon will be.

"It's my understanding that at some point in the near future, there will be an agenda item being brought back before this board to adopt a process for collecting STR fees or TOT fees directly, because right now, we have no way of accountability for it," he said.

Wilson nodded to the appeal's concerns but didn't seem overly moved by them, saying, "I live in a residential neighborhood, there are changes that occur and sometimes I am very disturbed by them and sometimes I make complaints about them, sometimes I don't and I'm appreciative of the noticing processes that we go through and sometimes changes are made and sometimes they aren't."

He motioned to deny the appeal with some clarifications on permit conditions and specifying that "a TOT is applied to the overnight stay."

"I would say that that only gets applied after we come back with the provisions on how we're gonna do reporting on that," he continued.

The motion was unanimously approved.

fore dark and parents attempts to contact them by cell phone were unsuccessful.

APD officers immediately began searching for the juveniles and at about 9:20 p.m., mutual aid was requested from the Humboldt County Sheriff's Office Search and Rescue Team, due to plummeting temperatures. The Arcata Fire District assisted with off-road vehicle assets and the U.S. Coast Guard and California Highway Patrol Northern Air Operations assisted with air support for the search.

At about 10:42 p.m., the male juvenile was located by a rescue team along the Ridge Trail and was transported out of the Arcata Community Forest and reunited with his parents.

The search continued for the female throughout the night and at about 7:51 a.m., she was located by a rescue team along the Ridge Trail.

She was transported out of the Arcata Community Forest by the Arcata Fire District and transferred to an ambulance for medical care, due to cold weather exposure. The juveniles did not sustain any injuries.

The Arcata Police Department would like to thank the following agencies for their assistance in locating the missing juveniles: Humboldt County Sheriff's Office, Arcata Fire District, US Coast Guard, Cal OES, CHP Northern Air Operations, and Cal Poly Humboldt Police Department.

MCSO | New pipe

seismically vulnerable and at risk of failure during significant earthquake events,” according to Kennedy Jenks. “While the District can be back-fed through a separate 12-inch intertie with the City of Arcata, the configuration of Arcata’s distribution system limits its use as an emergency secondary source of water.”

A new water line will solve this problem, according to a report written by MCSO Manager Pat Kaspari.

“The objective of the proposed project is to reduce the risk of loss of water services, and associated wastewater and fire services, to the District in the case of a large seismic or flood event,” Kaspari stated. “The installation of a new, redundant, seismically resilient high-density polyethylene (HDPE) pipeline under the river will greatly mitigate the risks to MCSO’s water supply.”

The project will be designed so that there is no need to dig a trench in the Mad River. Instead, horizontal directional drills will bore a 33-inch diameter hole in a field on one side of the river. The hole will curve down, cross under the river and come out on a field on the other side.

According to Kennedy Jenks “The depth under the river must account for any future scour in the event of a large storm. Our team will perform a scour analysis to ensure that the pipeline is installed with the appropriate amount of cover and will not be exposed in the future, enhancing the longevity of the pipeline.”

A FEMA grant will fund about $2,250,000 of the project, with the MCSO providing about $2,750,000. However, the district will also seek additional grant funding.

According to Kaspari, the clock is ticking on the FEMA grant.

“The original grant agreement had a Project Performance Period ending on August 26, 2026, but District Staff requested, and were granted, an extension to April 10, 2027,” Kaspari stated in a report. “However, it is still going to be a race to complete the engineering, permitting and construction of the project by April of 2027 and time is of the essence for this project.”

Excitable Oscar, so full of love and companionship

This is a continuation of last week’s conversation about our Redwood Pals dogs at the shelter and how we advocate for dogs that need our help. Oscar is one of our dogs.

During his time at the shelter, Oscar has truly become a volunteer favorite, described by several as “the biggest love!”

Oscar has been appreciated for his relaxed walking style and the way he melts into you when receiving pets or belly rubs. He is very attentive when being walked and can give his handler the most endearing looks.

Oscar was one of the dogs that was utilized as the “other dog” for testing out new dogs and got along with others well.

Oscar was adopted with another dog. The adopters had him for about 10 days and said he was goofy and sweet. The dogs apparently got along great most of the time, but got into one scuffle when the female tried to take a ball away from Oscar, and another when there was a marrow bone in play.

The owners felt like their dog had contributed to the problem as she had not previously been all that dog-friendly. They returned Oscar as they wanted both dogs to be safe.

Unfortunately for Oscar, that made it sound like he might not be adoptable. We believe he is still quite adoptable.

His adopters have called several times to see if he is OK and say they would take him back if their older girl was a better fit for him. He has had no issue with humans taking food or toys away from him.

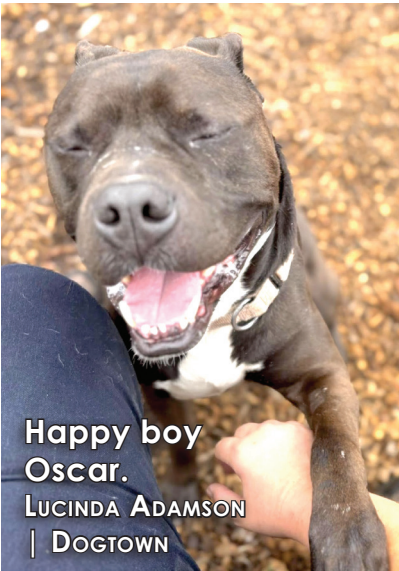

As an aside, we usually recommend limiting bones in multiple dog households due to the high excitement factor. My dogs rarely get anything very exciting unless they are spending some time in their crates. Even the nicest dogs can get a little testy when there are high value goodies in play.

Oscar is definitely worth meeting and will make a great companion dog. He is the perfect dog for some adventuring followed by some couch potato time! Oscar is about 5 years old, out of the teenage years and well-behaved in the home.

Send us an email at redwoodpalsrescue@gmail.com or leave a voicemail at (707) 633-8842 for more information or to meet Oscar.

Funding | Low-income residents, youth and families most deeply affected well-being of our community,” Holcomb said.

She described the impacts highlighted in the survey as “very sobering.”

Changing Tides Family Services Executive Director Kerry Venegas presented the survey’s striking findings.

The loss of millions of dollars in funding across the organizations stems from the passage of the One Big Beautiful Bill Act, which Venegas referred to as House Bill 1 “because I just cannot deal with the name or the acronym.”

Funding for a range of services, including food and children’s programs, has been scaled back.

“Housing’s been hit particularly hard, so is domestic violence prevention,” Venegas said.

The survey also reports $2 million in delayed reimbursements and the closure or reduction of 33 programs, which has affected 2,333 clients.

The three most impacted groups are low-income residents, youths and families.

The impacts are also on employees, with burnout and workload increases running high.

Federal pressure has also led to a change in outreach practices, with 20 percent of surveyed organizations reporting scale-back of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI).

Seventy percent of the organizations expect things will get worse.

Venegas emphasized the significance of the number of clients affected.

“I feel like that’s a number that’s a little bit hard to put our hands around, so that’s why we’re continuing to do the surveys, because that will grow and it will evolve,” she said.

Targeting of DEI was also highlighted.

“I’m sure that many of you saw some of the lists that leaked out probably right after mid-January that had a whole list of words that can’t be used, that you should not have as part of your initiatives,” said Venegas. “Unfortunately, those lists also contain the words women and female, which makes it extremely hard to do the work we do.”

Upcoming cuts to Medicaid and food stamps represent “the most critical vulnerabilities,” she continued.

The cuts combined with inflation make for a perfect storm of societal stress, with the non-profits themselves being a critical but somewhat unacknowledged economic sector.

“What’s super important to understand, is that nonprofits are woven into the fabric of our community as businesses, as employers and as an essential service provider for the stability of our community, its workforce, and our families and children,” Venegas said. “We engage with local employment, we employ a lot of the labor force and of course, we strengthen the economy through payroll, just like any business would, because in essence, we are businesses.”

Gregg Foster of the Redwood Region Economic Development Commission hosted the meeting and noted the presentation’s statistics on the numbers of people getting Medicaid and food stamp benefits in Humboldt, 75,000 and 40,000 respectively.

“How many of those people are seniors?” he said. “And so, if you want to operate from what I think is the false assumption that all you have to do is go out and get work and get off of this, when we’re dealing with seniors and the disabled – I think that’s particularly cruel.”

Although “It’s been hard to know where the next hits are coming from and how to prepare for them when everything is such a big unknown,” Venegas views Humboldt as a strong community.

“Even despite many of the challenges we have being behind the Redwood Curtain, Humboldt is the place to be because we pull together really well and no matter where we are in the political spectrum, we have a shared vision of what it takes to be a community,” she said.

NorCAN will update the situation through a listserv and its website, at norcal-nonprofits.com.

Artist statement

I describe myself as a black-and-white artist, rendering minute detail in ink or graphite. I am also fond of ink wash, scratchboard, sumi-e (Japanese ink painting), and calligraphy.

Friends encouraged me to “do color.” Therefore, I took classes in oil, colored pencil, oil pastels and watercolor pencil. Watercolor has been my biggest challenge, with myriad classes, including a plein air watercolor tour to Greece in 2018.

My love for detail kept me from producing convincing watercolor. However, the Greek trip was a “light bulb” experience. Buoyed by a new sense of confidence, my watercolor improved.

Taking the “Art for the Young at Heart” Zoom class — plus COVID self-isolation — propelled more experimentation. YouTube helped me discover a watercolor technique that is just perfect for me: loose watercolor. I still create black-and-white and colored images with superb detail, peppered with very loose watercolor impressions.

I opened my mind to new and different art styles. I was asked to teach art via Zoom during COVID. From

IMAGES VIA LOUISE BACON-OGDEN/FOAM there I began in-person classes in varied media at various venues. I teach at the Center for Spiritual Living, OLLI (through Cal Poly Humboldt), three area senior centers, Silvercrest and Alder Bay senior residences, plus one-on-one and group private classes. I offer classes from ages 10 to adult. My goal is to turn anyone into a creative soul.

Grange’s history-influenced light fixtures, Logger goes country

The three-headed dragon is a mythological creature that often symbolizes power and mystery. The Mad River Grange is fortunate to have its own talented three-headed dragon helping in the restoration of its building.

Ron Perry

ry of the Mad River Old Crows explained, “We’re a collaboration of three extremely gifted craftsmen working to bring charm and beauty back to the historic building. Rick Willits, Mike Callaghan and myself have recently completed the ceiling lights project at the Grange. Each of us has our own specialty that we brought into the project – Willits with his wood and carpentry expertise, Callaghan with his artisan, hand-crafted glass experience and me with my industrial engineering background. The ceiling project has six light fixtures, each with four dimmable LED lights and old logging saw blades. We incorporated the saw blades as a way to give credence to our logging era history. The blue serpentine design within the redwood planks of the fixtures represents the Mad River that is part of the soul of Blue Lake.”

Perry added that the project could not have happened without the additional volunteer support from the Old Crows. Over 200 volunteer hours were involved to complete this project. Special kudos also go to Leo’s Woodworking Company in Arcata for the wonderful redwood planks acquired there.

Speaking of the Mad River Grange, its monthly breakfast will be on Sunday, November 9 from 8 a.m. until 11 a.m. You can feast on pancakes, biscuits and gravy, eggs, sausage or ham, hash browns, orange juice and coffee or tea for the reasonable price of $10.

And while you’re enjoying your breakfast look up to marvel at the new light fixtures.

On Thursday, Nov. 6 the 3 Blues Amigos will be presenting blues and vintage rock and roll at the Logger Bar from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Grab a libation, savor the Logger atmosphere, tap your feet and be home in your comfy pants before 7 p.m.

If you talk bad about country music, it’s like saying bad things about my momma. Them’s fightin’ words!

– Dolly Parton

Country music fans take note. The One Night Country Band performs at the Logger Bar on Friday, Nov. 7 from 8 to 11 p.m. The band comprises Jake Wiegandt, Jerome Stinespring, Jeff Landen, Paul DeMark and Norm Crawford.

Special guest artists will be Jeff DeMark and Siena Nelson.

Asked how this band of talented musicians came about, Jake Wiegandt replied, “The idea was conceived by drummer extraordinaire Paul DeMark. He wanted to get some pickers together that love country music and could perform without a rehearsal. All off-the-cuff playing. We got a song list going and the knowledge of our instruments to put together one hell of a show! It harkens back to a time of the early honky-tonks when ‘Coast Country’ was making its indelible mark on the country music scene. So come on down to the legendary Logger Bar to wet your whistle and shake your tail feathers.”

Legendary country music songwriter Harlan Howard said, “Country music ain’t nothin’ but three chords and the truth.”

EXIT theatre offers Three One Act Comedies

EXIT THEATRE
ARCATA PLAZA – EXIT Theatre presents Getting Dark: Three One-Act Comedies from Nov. 7 to Nov. 16, with performances Fridays and Saturdays at 7 p.m. and Sundays at 2 p.m. at EXIT Theatre, 890 G St., second floor, on the Plaza in Arcata.

The production spotlights three new short plays Is He Sick?, This Is My Spot! and The Stump written by Daniel Lehman and directed by Wendy Butler with an ensemble cast featuring Amadeus Garcia Brown, Larry Crist, Kimberly Haile, Victor Howard, Heather Petersteiner and James Wright.

Lehman, of Arcata, is not an EXIT newcomer. His previous works The Backpacker’s Dilemma and This Isn’t Normal! have been part of the theater’s annual Short Play Festival for the past two years.

EXIT Theatre Artistic Director Christina Augello said this production is another example of EXIT

Theatre’s commitment to supporting original work created by local writers.

"Working with local playwrights gives both the artist and the theater the opportunity to build a relationship that supports the creative development of new work, a primary focus for EXIT Theatre," she said.

Tickets are $15 to $25 and available online at daniel-lehman.eventbrite.com and cash at the door. theexit.org

❖ It's sooooo easy to get your letter published in the Mad River Union: First, sign your letter with a real name and a city of origin, plus a phone number (which won't be published) for identity verification. Then, send it to opinion@madrivunion.com, or the physical address listed on page 2. Finally, make paragraphs, spell check, don't double space and don't capitalize random words. Basically, don't use Martian punctuation and everything will be fine.

Hiller Road Quickbuild a success, so thanks

After more than a year in the making, the Hiller Road Quickbuild and Mural Project has completed its first phase! Between Central and McKinleyville Avenue, you can now find new bike lanes, temporary bollards, and community-sponsored murals.

Our team wants to thank everyone for making the first phase of this project a beautiful success!

We want to extend a huge thanks to Humboldt County Public Works for managing traffic control and coordinating the roadwork portion of the project, and to the 30-plus community members who showed up for our Public Mural Paint Day!

We want to express our deepest gratitude to the generous sponsors who made this project possible: McKinleyville Ace Hardware – for donating all the paint and materials! Edward Jones McKinleyville, Coast Central Credit Union, Ramone's Bakery, Green Diamond, Six Rivers Brewery, who also provided lunch to the crew, The Wiyot Tribe, Grace Good Shepherd Church, The Makers' Space, Sea Goat Farmstand & Folk School, The McKinleyville Municipal Advisory Committee (McKMAC), Coalition for Responsible Transportation Priorities (CRTP), and so many community donors via our GoFundMe campaign. Another thank you to the California Conservation Corp (CCC) for showing up to volunteer Friday and Saturday!

We also want to recognize our amazing team of artists, Ben Goulart, Gina Tuzzi, Sorren Richards and Toad, who put in the time and energy to make the murals come to life.

We're currently preparing for Phase 2, which will be our largest mural installation yet, which will be located at the roundabout at Hiller Road and McKinleyville Avenue. This phase is tentatively scheduled for November or early spring, and we're actively seeking community sponsors and local donors to help fund it.

The Quickbuild roadway changes were initiated and facilitated by Humboldt County Public Works based on results from a community input workshop and multiple traffic studies in the area, such as the Middle School Walkability Assessment (2019) and the Multimodal Connections Project (2021-22). This temporary project has already sparked discussion and caught the eyes of many residents in town. Come take a drive, walk, or roll down Hiller and let us know what you think.

Let's keep building something beautiful, together!

Sincerely,
The McKMAC Committee for Active Transportation (CAT)

In a juvenile response to the recent No Kings Rallies, President Trump released an AI-generated video depicting himself as a hero bomber pilot king wearing a crown who is dropping excrement on the No Kings protesters below.

On the other hand, if one looks at this video symbolically, one can arrive at a totally different interpretation. It depicts a disillusioned Trump spewing his verbal hogwash on a protesting audience below.

Release the goodness

Who the heck is in charge of us?!?
I don't think anyone is. Do you?
Are we playing by the rules? What are they?
What do I know after this much of a lifetime? Surely I know something.
And it is that we hold a goodness within us that when released will stop all wars.

Laurel Tree Elementary's young actors' Much Ado at the Arcata Playhouse

Last weekend the 6th, 7th and 8th graders of Laurel Tree Elementary School put on a production of Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing at the Arcata Playhouse.

Asked what they felt the lesson was from Shakespeare's play, one student piped up and said, "There's a lot of cooperation involved."

After talking with students and teachers about the impact of their time in production, it's clear that this takeaway of connection and coordination goes beyond the script.

The Arcata Playhouse is bustling with excitement as they prepare for this year's production. Director and teacher Brenda Sutter has been putting on these productions with Laurel Tree students for the past 20 years. Sutter emphasized that the connections between students are one of the most lasting impacts of their time on stage.

"I think that one of the really important things about doing theater as a group is that it builds bonds between kids that are stronger than bonds that you have just doing classwork together. Because what you're doing is you're taking risks together and you're doing things that push you out of your comfort zone. And so that's the way that bonds are built between people, when you've done a difficult thing together," Sutter said.

We spoke to the actors ahead of their first performances. They were enthusiastic to share their perspectives, and thoughtful in their responses. Asked what they like about being in the theater, one student confirmed Sutter's assertion that connection is key. "I like spending time in the theater cause I get to know other people, I get to dress up, pretend to be someone else. I can just play around with a whole new person, that's really fun," they said.

Many of them shared that they have a love of performing outside of school too, citing their experience as dancers, or their enthusiasm for impressions.

One student told us about the challenges of performing Shakespeare at a young age, "What's challenging for me is I stutter a lot and I repeat my words and there's certain words I can't pronounce," they said. "So trying to speak in a Shakespearean language is kind of difficult." They advised practice and vocal warm ups.

Even if they're not interested in acting, there's still a place for them in the production. Students were given the opportunity to work with lighting and sound technician Mobius to help with the technical side of the show.

One student shared that they enjoy the birdseye view, "I enjoy sitting up there and being able to see the whole play from up there. It's really cool and I like all the lighting and songs. It's also cool to see what's going on up there when you're not usually up there," they said.

The school itself does not have space that could host performances, requiring them to rent from local venues, like the Arcata Playhouse. Sutter shared that this necessary journey outside the school has its own benefits.

"We've always been in the community and rented theaters. I think it's so cool to get kids out of the school and into the real world, it's a great community connection," she said.

Adding that this real world experience plays a large part in what helps the message of cooperation sink in. "Art is about doing real things and about doing things in creative ways. You never really understand [Shakespeare] if you just read it, you really have to do it, and that's true about education in so many areas you have to do a thing to understand it," said Sutter.

The students agreed that a theater is markedly better than a school gym, "It's pretty wondrous, the entire theater air. It's very nice to sit in here even when nothing's happening. I like to take it in," one student shared.

Whether it's working the lights, finding their spotlight, or just taking in a theatrical environment, it seems that the lasting lesson comes from their earnest participation and real life experience.

Thank you to the students of Laurel Tree Elementary for sharing their perspectives, and congratulations to the young bards on a successful show.

Trinidad percolates with adventurous, interesting, informative activities

Trinidad School's fifth grade class held a car wash a few weeks ago to help finance a trip to the Ashland Shakespeare Festival production of Oscar Wilde's farce, The Importance of Being Earnest (1895) performed in the Elizabethan outdoor theater.

Teacher Stephanie Strasser said that the students studied the play, vocabulary, characters, Victorian mannerisms and Wilde's biography for a couple of weeks prior to the excursion.

The overnight trip included a picnic, duck and deer sightings, a hike and art lesson in Lithia Park, a taste of the famous Lithia mineral water (vile tasting but reputedly very healthy) from the central fountain, a stroll through town seeking books and gnomes, a Martoli's Deep Dish Pizza Restaurant dinner, card games, stories before bed, and a "Behind the Scenes" theater backstage tour where the students learned about props, trap doors and quick set changes.

The trip ended with a science museum visit. The caravan stopped on Highway 199 for photos at the "Welcome to Oregon" northbound and "Welcome to California" southbound journey. The enthusiastic class and chaperones thoroughly enjoyed a first-rate adventure. Ms. Strasser commented "I'm proud of all of you – and I didn't lose anyone!"

Trinidad Museum's Native Plant Garden featured in Flora

The Fall 2025 issue of the California Native Plant Society's periodical Flora features a full page of color photographs and an article on Trinidad Museum's native Plant Garden, open all year for strolling and contemplation.

Volunteer gardeners Ingrid Bailey, Mary Kline, Carl Kalb, Bob and Rita Quade, Carol Mone, Aaron Hakenen, Bob Battigan, Gavin Scott, Larry Levine and others on the garden team have every reason to be immensely proud of the garden's nurturing which began in 2006 when only clay soil, rocks and weeds confronted their imaginations and skills.

Virginia Waters, Ron Johnson, Jill Mefford, Laraine Cook and Claire Perricelli have retired from garden work but they are among the early visionaries. Nancy Rehg assisted in designing the garden.

Currently, the garden team is installing beautiful repurposed cedar and redwood plant posts with new identification signs, complete with QR codes for additional plant information. The vernal pond is starting to fill up with recent rain, pleasing to frogs, birds and other wild creatures.

What do Arcata residents want? The first FlashVote results are in

CITY OF ARCATA
ARCATA – Results from the first City of Arcata FlashVote survey are in and provide insight into how the community feels about Arcata's strengths, the community's priorities and much more.

On Oct. 22, the City of Arcata sent out a short FlashVote survey to community members who signed up to provide their anonymous feedback. This initial survey asked about what issues are most important to the community, how well these issues are being addressed and what issues the city should prioritize. The survey was open for 48 hours and received participation from over 300 community members!

Survey respondents indicated that Arcata excels in areas like access to parks, community events and creating a sense of community.

A significant number of respondents indicated they want the city to prioritize replacing aging infrastructure, attracting more local jobs and reducing impacts from homelessness.

Notably, over half of Arcata residents that responded said that Arcata is headed in the right direction overall.

The survey results are publicly available for anyone interested in viewing and analyzing

SCENE

A 2,500-year-old play that still resonates today

CAL POLY HUMBOLDT
CAL POLY CAMPUS
– The Cal Poly Humboldt Department of Dance, Music and Theatre presents Sophocles’ Antigone, directed by Cynthia Martells.

The play takes place on Friday, Nov. 7; Saturday, Nov. 8; Friday, Nov. 14; and Saturday Nov. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in Gist Hall on the Cal Poly campus. Matinees will be held at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 9 and Sunday, Nov. 16.

Written almost 2,500 years ago in the 5th century B.C.E. by the playwright Sophocles, Antigone still resonates today with a story that maps onto the conflicts we endure in our own modern world: the laws of a nation vs. the natural laws and rights of individuals, personal belief vs. institutions, the fragile line that separates a patriot from a terrorist, the dangers of a tyrant.

Join us for opening night, Nov. 7 at the Gist Hall Theatre at Cal Poly Humboldt and experience a modern performance of a true classic. Antigone will run Nov. 7 through Nov. 16. Ticket prices are $13 general, $11 for students and children and free for Cal Poly Humboldt students with ID. Tickets can be purchased online at tickets.humboldt.edu/dance-music-and-theatre.

Antigone is one of the three tragedies by Sophocles that tell the story of the ancient city Thebes during the rule of Oedipus – from his rise to king to his downfall and death and the civil war that followed. Antigone begins in the aftermath of the civil war that had just been fought at the gates of the city between her brothers Polynices and Eteocles. Both brothers die in the battle at each other’s hands (Greek curses are always fulfilled) leaving their Uncle Creon to reign as king. Creon has decreed Polynices a rebel and traitor and to refuse his body burial. Antigone, as her human nature and the laws of the gods make clear, is aghast and wishes to bury her fallen brother. What will she do? How will Creon respond? What tragedy will unfold?

Director Cynthia Martells is very familiar with Antigone – she portrayed the titular character in 2001 at The Shakespeare Theatre in Washington, DC and she and the cast were invited by the Greek Council to perform it in Athens, Greece.

Twenty-four years later, she is more interested in directing this tragedy than performing in it. “Experiencing the emergence of talent, artistry and expression in these young actors is exciting,” says Martells.

In this production, Antigone is performed by Lily Linz. “It’s a very challenging role for me,” says Linz, “and I am really excited by this challenge. The stakes are so high for my character, it makes for an exciting world to play in.”

Martells asked the cast to fully embrace the characters not as ancient Greeks but as people that could live in any time, perhaps even our own. In her words “...there are many themes in Antigone that are relevant to the world and events that we are experiencing today. It acts as a cautionary tale.”

Peter Nielsen plays the role of Haimon, son to Creon and engaged to Antigone.

Stage Manager Caleb McCarthy said “It’s a work of theater that people have been keeping alive for over 2,000 years, yet it still holds deep relevance today.”

The production is being staged and presented at the Gist Hall Theatre at Cal Poly Humboldt.

This intimate theatre will immerse you in the scenic design by Bob Pickering, the costume designs by Rae Robison, the lighting design by Michael Burkhart, and all of the amazing design teams’ worldbuilding.

A Christmas Carol

NORTH COAST REPERTORY THEATRE

EUREKA – Puppets, masks, and songs – oh my! Step into a world of wonder with this brand-new adaptation, lovingly created in memory of John Lynd, who once brought A Christmas Carol to life at Chino Community Theatre in the early 2000s. It was during that production that a young stage manager named Shawn Wagner got to really know John, sparking a beautiful friendship and mentorship that continued until John’s passing in 2020.

Now, the magic comes full circle. When the chance arose to direct this reimagined production alongside her longtime friend and collaborator Isabel Semler, Shawn knew it was a dream too good to pass up. Together, Isabel and Shawn have crafted a theatrical experience filled with puppetry, masks, dance, music and a whole lot of heart. This silly, soulful and whimsical journey will enchant audiences of all ages and just when you think you know what’s coming, it surprises you. (And if you dress in your favorite holiday clothing, you’ll even get a free cookie!)
